Congregants joined together for food and fun following Sunday services as we celebrated the artwork of Dar'Ren Morris who was incarcerated at 19 and sentenced to life in prison.

11:45-12:45 – Fellowship with quesadillas, salad, fruit, and desserts

1:00 -- Judy Adrian give a guided tour of the artwork

2:00 -- Chaplain Christa Fisher spoke about incarceration in the Dane County Jail

Paper, markers, pencils, and crayons were put out for kids to draw pictures and send notes to Da'Ren at the table near the art wall.

Special thanks to Jim Muehl for his own artwork: The Tree of Justice and to Jackie Muehl for her poetry that describes the tree. The tree will stand in the Shalom room for the duration of the art show, which ended at the end of November.

9:00 am Education Hour: *The Criminalization of Black & Brown Children in our Schools

Rudy Bankston, Restorative Justice Coach in the Madison Metropolitan School District, knows how damaging Incarceration is to the mind, body, soul, and spirit. Rudy was sentenced to life in prison at the age of nineteen for a crime he didn't commit. He served twenty years in Wisconsin prisons until his appeal prevailed and was released in 2015.

Rudy joined MCC's education hour for an interactive discussion of a national trend affecting black and brown youth: the criminalization of students of color in our schools. Rudy's books, Shed So Many Tears and Snippets of Soul in Seventeen Syllables were available for purchase before and after the session and are available at iAmWeClassics.com.

Tree of Sorrow, Tree of Hope, Tree of Justice

Roots angular, scarce
foreshortened, shallow unfit to nourish survival,
growth doubtful,
threatened by winds, floods, drought.

Trunk confining,
cage-like bark
gaping, wounded,
jagged, vulnerable.

Crown struggles up, out,
branches, twigs, buds
seeking, longing.

Spirit strives to unfurl leaves
tender, sparse,
here, there

Until the light is reflected as justice dawns.

The tree was hung with leaves that each had written on the services and their costs for the Madison Area Jail Ministry. A donation box was placed next to the tree.

The tree has traveled to several congregations in the Madison Area as part of their justice work.

Cell representation

With yellow duct tape, a cell was outlined in actual dimensions on the floor in front of the art wall.

In it, in yellow duct tape, was written:

This is the size of Dar'ren's cell.
He shares it with another man.
Dar'ren is over six feet tall.

Phone calls with Dar'Ren

During the presentation by Judy Adrian, Dar'Ren was able to call her and people in the audience were able to speak with him. Another call was made during the book discussion.
